Lennox and Addington Teachers' Association

Mr. Reid, M. A., I. P. S. of the northern division of Addington and Frontenac, with his teachers, joined with Mr. Nesbit, B. A., I. P. S. and the teachers of his inspectorate in making one of the most helpful and pleasant conventions ever held for the teachers of this county.

The Convention was held in the N. C. I., Thursday and Friday, October 3rd and 4th, 1912.

The session Thursday morning opened at 10:30 with a Scripture reading from Proverbs I, 1-6, and 20-30, and prayer by Rev. Dr. Howard, M.A. of the Presbyterian Church, Napanee.

In his address, the President, Mr. Nesbit, read from an address by Dr. Merchant, several paragraphs which expressed in concise form a few important thoughts for the teachers.

Forty-eight responded to roll-call, after which the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

The treasurer's report was examined and found correct by the auditors, Messrs. U. J. Flach and T. C. Tice.

The following committee was appointed to report on the Resolutions of the O. E. A.,—Messrs. Reid, Tice, Flach, Nesbit, and Mrs. Alkenbrack of Tamworth and Mrs. Gordanier, of Camden East.

Roll-call at 1:30 p.m. showed an attendance of 73, quite a number entering just afterwards.

The President then introduced the lecturer for this Convention, Mr. S. J. Keyes, B. A., B. Paed., Peterborough Normal School, who spoke on his first subject, "Primary Reading." The speaker threw much light on the subject. Mr. Reid led in the discussion, followed by Miss Parks, Messrs. Nesbit and Tice. The latter complimented Mr. Keyes on his lecture and the department on their choice of such speakers, expressed his personal gratitude for the lecture and emphasized some of its strong points.

The President welcomed Mr. Denyes, a former member of this association, and called upon him for a speech. Mr. Denyes expressed himself as pleased to meet the teachers and enjoy the good things provided for them. Among other good suggestions he advised the teachers never to cease to be students and paid Mr. Nesbit a well-deserved compliment by pointing him out as an illustrious example.

Miss Kate M. Keachie, of Yarker, gave a remarkable paper on "How We Can Make School Work More Interesting to Children." Mr. Flach leading in the discussion, said the paper showed much thought was given to how work by the teacher ant-

be students and paid Mr. Neshit a well-deserved compliment by pointing him out as an illustrious example.

Miss Kate M. Keachie, of Yarker, gave a remarkable paper on "How We Can Make School Work More Interesting to Children." Mr. Flach leading in the discussion, said the paper showed much thought was given to her work by the teacher outside of school-hours, and predicted for Miss Keachie a bright future as a teacher. Mr. Tice emphasized one point of her paper, - current events, - as that is one way of recognizing the connection between school life and outdoor life.

Mr. J. E. Benson, M. A., N. C. L., in his lecture on Nature Study, gave several phases of the subject and explained how to make different kinds of collections. He advised the use of a good lens and of "Miller's Text Book on Mineralogy." Knowing that a treat awaited them, the teachers regretted that time did not permit of Mr. Benson's giving, as he intended a lesson on a piece of granite.

The programme given in the Town Hall, Thursday evening was all that could be desired. The lecture, "An Evening with Dickens" was a treat of the season as was also the singing by one of Napanee's favorite vocalists, Mrs. Howard. The thanks of the Association is due Mr. U. J. Flach, M. A., N. C. L., for his kindly aid in preparing the hall for the concert.

Friday's work began at 9 a.m. with the Report of Committees given by Messrs. Reid, Tice and Flach.

Mr. Keyes gave his lecture on "Jean Mitchell's School," his subject being "Ideals," which he classified as ideals of physical comfort, of gathering material for self, of duty, of honor, of right and of service; the latter making the teacher's work successful and giving true happiness in later life. One of the most delightful readings ever given in Napanee, was the one consisting of a number of selections from "Jean Mitchell's School," with which Mr. Keyes closed his address, much of the charm lying in the reading itself.

Mr. Reid, M. A., I.P.S., gave a very helpful paper on "A School-Room Problem," mentioning several difficulties and giving suggestive ways of dealing with them. He expressed his appreciation of the work done by our Normal School lectures, and a wish that they would give us their lectures in printed form.

The following were elected a committee to consider the question of having a circulating library for teachers. - Inspector Reid, Messrs. Flach, Tice, and Blackenbury, of Bath; Miss Black, of Odessa; Mrs. Gordanier, of Camden East; Miss Keachie, Yarker, and Miss R. Patterson and Miss Eastcott, Enterprise.

Roll-call at 1.30 p.m., was followed by the election of officers: - Pres., Mr. Reid, M. A., I. P. S.; Vice-Pres., Miss Kate M. Keachie, Yarker; Sec.-Treas., - E. Harrison; Executive-Mr. Flach, M. A., N. C. L., Mr. Tice, Model School, Napanee, and the Principals of Newburgh, Yarker, Bath and Odessa.

Mr. Keyes' last lecture was on "School-Room Routine." After classifying habits he dealt with the question, "What routine in school will begat physical habit!" and showed that even in such simple

At eight o'clock on Saturday evening Mr. Wm. Johnson, Belleville, who had been stricken on Thursday afternoon at Napanee station, passed away at the parsonage of the Rev. J. P. Wilson, former pastor of Bridge Street Methodist Church, Belleville. Ever since the attack he had been lying in an unconscious state, and had been attended by Dr. Wilson, son of Rev. J. P. Wilson. Dr. Yeomans, of Belleville, the family physician, attended at Mr. Johnson's bedside on Friday but held out no hopes of his ultimate recovery. On Saturday morning there was a slight change for the better, but he sank gradually in the next few hours. The malady that resulted in his death was what is known to physicians as angina pectoris. That he had been failing rapidly the last few months was manifest to all his friends. But recently he had been about the duties in connection with his office as District Inspector of Weights, Measures and Gas. As late as on Monday last he took part in the opening ceremonies at the new public school on Pine street, Belleville.

In the passing of Mr. Wm. Johnson, Belleville has lost one of her most prominent and whole hearted citizens, a great share of whose life was spent in the service of others and in a variety of pursuits that showed his intense activity.

In the early days in Belleville the late Mr. Johnson was engaged in the hat and fur business which he conducted for a number of years. In 1879 thirty-three years ago, he received the appointment of District Inspector of Weights and Measures and Gas. He was still active in his duties therewith when he was fatally stricken.

It was to Bridge Street Methodist Church and Sunday School that his life was mainly devoted. Any work which he could perform to be of assistance to this body was one of love. His association in youth with the Christian influence of those days was the cause of his great fidelity. Uniting with the school and church, his influence began to be felt until in 1874 he was appointed superintendent. This office through many vicissitudes he held until a few months ago, when on his physicians advice he resigned and was succeeded by Judge Deroche.

In 1876 he was elected in Belleville vice president of the Provincial Sunday School Association, an office he retained ever since.

The remains were taken to Belleville on Saturday morning and the funeral took place on Monday.

Over optimism, therefore, aged, but it has been pointed Russia and Austria, when ed, can go far in the Balkan. There appears to be solid the belief that the Government of Turkey and the Balkan though not necessarily they are still amenable to the European powers.

The combined ultimatum reforms which the Balkan to have despatched to I now, under the guidance of taken the form of a note, be sent simultaneously great powers and Turkey. Long to Select.

New York, Oct. 8.—Charles Becker, the police lieutenant, who was in command of the "strong arm squad" of police gambling raiders, was placed on trial yesterday for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler who was alleged to have betrayed "the system." Out of fourteen examined from the special panel of 25 talesmen called for jury duty, only one juror had been chosen when the day's session closed last night. He was Harold B. Skinner, an electrical engineer, son of Charles B. Skinner, an electrical engineer of New York.

Of the other thirteen talesmen called, three were peremptorily challenged by the state, and four by the defence, Becker himself instructing his counsel, John F. McIntyre, to make the challenge in each case. The others were disqualified by the court for bias or in sustaining challenges for cause by counsel.

The examination proceeded so slowly that Justice Goff, in adjourning the case, threatened to hold night sessions if the jury was not picked by five o'clock to-day.

One of the peremptory challenges of the prosecution was exercised on the first talesman called after he had said that he was a former member of the police force. In nearly every instance the talesmen acknowledged that he had formed an opinion on the case from reading the newspapers, and those who were disqualified declared that the opinion would influence their verdict.

That Becker had lost weight as the result of his two months' confinement in the Tombs was apparent to those who knew him when he entered the court room. That he was mentally alert, however, became apparent from the manner in which he studied each talesman as he took the stand. Frequently he would signal his counsel for a conference while the latter was in the midst of volleying questions.

No spectators were allowed in the courtroom with the solitary exception of the accused officer's wife, a frail little woman, who sat far back in the room, a solemn, anxious listener.

Outside a crowd of the curious, with a sprinkling of east side gangsters, thronged the corridors of the building, but were kept in order by an active squad of police, including plain-clothesmen delegated especially to guard District Attorney Whitman on his trips to and from the court room.

HOSTILE TO LABOR.

Woodrow Wilson Is Charged With Opposition to Unions.

New York, Oct. 8.—Governor Johnson of California invaded Long Island on behalf of the National Progressive party last night and proclaimed it his intention in future addresses during the campaign to discuss Woodrow Wilson's attitude toward trade unionism. He asserted he would seek to show that the Democratic Presidential candidate formerly was hostile to union labor.

In pursuance of the plan Governor Johnson last night dealt with a letter Governor Wilson wrote to President Joline of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railroad Co. in 1907. The letter contained acknowledgements of a copy of an address Mr. Joline had made, in which he attacked labor unions and "political demagogues." Governor Wilson wrote regarding the speech: "I have read it with relish and entire agreement."

After reading the letter Governor Johnson referred to a speech made by Governor Wilson in 1909, when he

"We have, therefore, the attitude of Mr. Wilson in hostility to labor unions in 1909, and the fact that 'with relish and entire agreement,' he read the address concerning the 'cruel, unthinking hammer of labor unions' in 1907. Therefore it must be presumed that he is still hostile to labor unions."

THE GOLDFINCH.

Changes In Plumage That Are Puzzling to the Novice.

Most every one in America is acquainted with the goldfinch, but many people know the bird by the name of lettuce bird on account of its bright yellow color. Goldfinch is a very appropriate name, as the bright yellow of the male when he is in breeding plumage is like burnished gold. The female goldfinch is more modestly dressed than her mate. The changes in plumage of the male are very interesting and to the novice somewhat puzzling.

Until the student becomes acquainted with the bird he may wonder why he sees no males during the winter. The truth is at this season the flocks of supposed female goldfinches are really of both sexes, the male bird having assumed in the previous fall, usually by the end of October, a plumage closely resembling that of the female and young bird of the year. The male retains this inconspicuous dress until late in February, when one can notice a gradual change taking place in some of the birds.

This renewal of feathers is actively continued through March and April, and by May 1 our resplendent bird is with us again. The song period with the male goldfinch continues as long as he wears his gold and black livery, for it commences as early as the middle of March and ends late in August.

WOMAN'S TRIALS.

The burdens a woman has to carry through life are many but they can be lightened if she will turn to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. A soothing and strengthening nerve—subduing nervous excitability, prostration, hysteria, hot flashes and the many symptoms which may be caused by distressing ills peculiar to women. For those "dragging-down" pains or distress and for the derangements and irregularities the "Favorite Prescription" has had many thousands of testimonials from people living in every part of America. Another important thing to every woman is that this medicine is made from efficient medicinal roots, without the use of alcohol, narcotics, or any injurious agents. Full list of ingredients given on bottle-wrapper and sworn to by Dr. R. V. Pierce—who is President of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. Every woman is invited to write to this Institute and receive confidential and sound medical advice, entirely without cost from one who makes the diseases of women his specialty.

MRS. MORRELL.

"I can cheerfully recommend your remedies, especially your 'Favorite Prescription,' for all female disorders," writes Mrs. M. M. MORRELL, of Bluff City, Tenn., Route 2. "During the past seven years I suffered from pains in the back and ovaries. Tried many remedies but found only transient relief until I was persuaded by a friend to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. After giving this remedy a fair trial, I found that it would do just what it is recommended to do. I used in all seven bottles. I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Pierce's remedies for all female derangements."

PRESS COMMENTS.

Galt Reporter—It keeps Sir James P. Whitney busy defending Chairman Leitch of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board.

Guelph Herald—Toronto won the baseball pennant, but it appears a more difficult problem to settle the question of who will win the prize of becoming Corporation Counsel.

Toronto Globe—The Whitney Government stands between the people of Ontario and tax reform, but tax reform will come. The builder will not always be treated as a public enemy.

Brandon Sun—Large reservations of grazing areas ought to be a permanent feature of Governmental land policy in the west, whether the control of the land be vested in the Provinces or remain with one Dominion.

Brockville Recorder—There is little doubt that there are many people now living who will see the day when the population of Canada will exceed that of the British Isles, and the situation which will be thus created will bring with it new problems.

Windsor Record—We are glad to note that Parliament is being summoned early to give every member of Parliament a chance to air his views on the navy. A few of them were overlooked the last time the navy discussion was up in Parliament.

Montreal Herald—"At the instance of Hon. George E. Foster," application is being made to the Interstate Commerce Commission to let Canadian wheat run south as well as east. This is the second time it has happened since the vote of September 21st, 1911, settled it that the wheat must not run south.

Saskatoon Phoenix—An eastern Conservative paper says Keir Hardie had no right to come to Canada and preach his doctrines of peace through working-class combined resistance. There was no objection made to British Conservative politicians airing their views on Canada's naval program.

Sudbury Star—Defaulting among bank clerks would seem to be on the increase in Canada. What the trouble is does not appear clear, but if this species of moral obliquity has its genesis in the inadequacy of the salaries paid, it is time somebody issued a Royal Commission to investigate the whole picayune business.

Vancouver Sun—At any rate, the proposals made by the grain-growers have resulted in forcing the industrialists to declare themselves on the question of relations with the mother country, and the knowledge that their conception of those relations is of an entirely sordid nature will perhaps have a salutary effect on the public mind.

Guelph Mercury—Some of the English capitalists who are now touring this country are undeniably making a campaign to arouse the Canadian mind to the war scare stage. Some even advise a sudden call to arms, that Germany may be smitten before her navy is strengthened. And these

NAVAL DISCIPLINE.

Punishments That Are Meted Out to British Sailors.

For infraction of regulations some curious punishments are meted out in the English navy. It is an every day occurrence, says the London Tit-Bits, to see half a dozen sailors lined up on deck facing the paint work, holding their hammocks on their shoulders. At first the hammock isn't heavy, but after an hour or so it drags on one's shoulders like lead. Besides, it is not at all entertaining to stare fixedly at a square foot of painted woodwork for an hour or more at a time.

Another punishment that Jack despises is bailing with a spoon. He is placed upon the deck, with two large wooden buckets, one filled with water and the other empty. With a spoon he must dip all the water from one bucket and transfer it to the other, being meanwhile the butt of his comrades' jests and jeers.

Sometimes a delinquent is made to walk slowly backward and forward along the deck, nursing in his arms a six inch projectile, weighing a little over 100 pounds. Once a sailor who laughed at the stammering speech of his commander was made to stand upon the forebridge in full view of the ship's crew and laugh for an hour and a half.

Spitting upon the deck of a man-of-war is strictly prohibited. Cuspidors are placed at intervals along the deck, and these must be used. Upon some ships when a sailor is caught spitting upon the deck a small tub is strapped to his chest, and he is made to wear it. Any one who chooses may use this walking receptacle. The offender thus punished rarely repeats his offense.

RATE ENQUIRY OPENS

Scope of the Investigation Will Be Enlarged, Says Drayton.

Railways Endeavor to Show That Eastern Tariffs Are Lower Because of Water Competition and Also That Numerous Reductions Have Been Made in the West—Notable Lawyers Present Before Board.

Ottawa, Oct. 8.—With an effort of the railroads to show that not only were their eastern rates lower by water competition which was absent in the west, but that numerous reductions had been made in rates as regards the latter as well, the western rate enquiry was opened yesterday morning by the Railway Commission, and continued in the afternoon. It will probably last all week.

That the scope of the enquiry would be enlarged so as to include more than the mere question of discrimination, was the important announcement of Chairman Drayton.

Although the enquiry has to do primarily with western rates, it is of interest to the east, inasmuch as one result of it might be a raising of eastern tariffs as well as a possible lowering of those affecting territory nearer the Pacific Ocean.

Probably the largest array of counsel and representatives of the various bodies interested ever seen in any single case before the Railway Commission was present. The many railway men included G. M. Bosworth, vice-president of the C.P.R.; Sir William Mackenzie of the C.N.R., and J. E. Dalrymple, vice-president of the G.T.R.

Mr. M. K. Cowan represented the interests of Alberta and Saskatchewan, and Mr. A. McDonald, British Columbia.

For the Federal Government appeared Mr. James Bicknell, K.C., of Toronto; Mr. H. W. White, K.C., of Winnipeg; Mr. Morrison of Vegreville, Alta., and G. E. Carpenter of Winnipeg.

Mr. Isaac Pitblado looked after the interests of the Winnipeg Board of Trade, and Mr. J. E. Walsh those of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

F. H. Chrysler, K.C., for the C.P.R., said the company did not ad-interests of the Winnipeg Board of Trade, and Mr. J. E. Walsh those of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

F. H. Chrysler, K.C., for the C.P.R., said the company did not admit that the interests of any one section were sacrificed to another. The public was protected, within the meaning of the clause of the railway act governing the matter and he promised to submit evidence showing that western rates were not unjust.

"Is there anyone connected with the C.P.R. who could tell what the water competition actually amounts to?"

"In tonnage?"

"No."

G. M. Bosworth said that western rates were chiefly based on Great Northern and Northern Pacific Railway rates and were not affected by water competition.

Quebec and Maritime Province rates were governed chiefly by St. Lawrence River competition as well as by the I.C.R. The C.P.R. did a large amount of business east and west in the United States, receiving this business from the other lines originally at St. Thomas and now at Windsor and Detroit.

Much iron and coal is also carried from the eastern States westward by the C.P.R. at rates the same as those over American roads. American grain, when Canadian grain was not seeking transport, was carried to St. John for export, but the Canadian was given the preference. The local American rates had a large bearing on through rates from one country to another. Rates in the western States were higher than in the east.

Cross-examined by Hon. E. H. Phippen for the C.N.R., Mr. Bosworth said there was no other district in the world where railways were up against so much water competition as in eastern Canada and rates had been based on it. An effort had been made by the G.T.R. to make higher rates in winter to get away from this, but it had been prevented by an order of the board. There was no water competition in the west.

At the afternoon session Vice-President Bosworth of the C.P.R. was re-cross-examined by Isaac Pitblado for the Winnipeg Board of Trade, and stated that the rates between two inland points would probably not be affected by water competition. The whole Western Ontario peninsula, however, he declared, would be affected. In fact, the C.P.R. had a standard mileage tariff applicable to the whole of Eastern Canada, irrespective of individual cases of water competition.

Mr. Pitblado examined the witness in regard to his statement that St. Paul and Fort William, instead of Winnipeg, should be compared. He then returned to the question of water competition, which was thoroughly considered.

Mr. McInnes was next called and gave evidence as to a number of rate reductions made by the C.P.R. at different times in its eastern and western rates. The reductions as regards grain oats, etc. had in some cases been as high as 60 per cent., while there had also been considerable reductions in coal, coke and a number of other commodities.

Bassee. There is little remarkable about the front of the house. It is just a plain, white, two storied French dwelling of a hundred years ago or of today for that matter.

But at the back is a garden, and at the bottom of the garden is a doorway leading into one of the oldest lanes in the world, from the look of it. Truly, this ruelle, with its crumbling walls of stone and plaster, its ivy and its shade of overhanging trees, is as happily devoid of suggestions of modern "improvements" as anything to be found within the suburbs of Paris.

By means of this byway Balzac, when insistent voices from within the house reached his ears as he worked in his little pavilion at the end of the garden, could avoid the unpleasantness of an interview with any holder of the overdue bills which throughout his life were the only tangible results of his experiments as a printer and type-founder.

It needs but little imagination to see him hurry off down the lane, hatless and in slippers, to await events, while he dreams of exploiting the jewels of the Golconda or the silver mines of the new world.

Nature's Carvings.

There is a rock profile to be seen on Mount Wilson, California, which is more striking than the famous formation in the White mountains, although the former is said by some to be the most perfect of all of "nature's carvings." The features are strong and full of expression and the contour of the head of correct proportions, the forehead lofty, the eyebrows jutting, and the aquiline nose is exceedingly vigorous. The mouth is hard and set, but complete in detail, and even the line from the nostril to the corner of the mouth and the rugged modeling of the cheek are distinctly marked. The chin and jaw are correctly sculptured, and even the line of the high collar and old fashioned coat may be seen on this remarkable bowlder.

Another Power Merger.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Oct. 8.—Announcement was made yesterday that the Niagara, Lockport & Ontario Power Co., American distributing agent of the Ontario Power Co., of this city, had obtained control of the Salmon River Power Co.

The latter company's generating plant will be used to obviate the necessity of constructing a second transmission line from this city to Rochester and Syracuse.

Tank Fell on Workman.

Kingston, Oct. 8.—Joseph Ahern received serious injuries at the locomotive works, when a large tank fell on him, crushing him under its weight. His right arm was broken and his legs and arms badly bruised.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. this country are fundamentally making a campaign to arouse the Canadian mind to the war scare stage. Some even advise a sudden call to arms, that Germany may be smitten before her navy is strengthened. And these men used to refer to a yellow American press and a continent of jingoes.

London Advertiser—The Right Hon. Walter Long came nearly succeeding Mr. Balfour as leader of the Opposition in the British House of Commons, a choice that would have made him Prime Minister some day. When Canadians reflect on this and on his ill-mannered conduct in Canada, they will think more highly of their own politics.

Crystal City Courier—Nature is usually lavish with her gifts, and the promise that "so long as the earth remaineth seed time and harvest shall not fail" still remains good, even though local conditions may not always suit us. Besides, courage and optimism go a long way towards winning success, and happiness and contentment is as much a process as a result.

Toronto World—Sir Hugh Graham and The Montreal Star (along with Sir Thomas Shaughnessy), fought against reciprocity because they thought it meant annexation. Sir Hugh Graham and The Montreal Star sit dumb while Shaughnessy grabs the C. P. R. melon, a thing that will stand to make thousands of annexationists out of a Canadian public that is turned over to the ruthless exploitation of railway pirates.

St. John Telegraph and Sun—The Canadian manufacturer's idea of a British preference is that the general tariff of Canada should be high enough to exclude all manufactured goods, and that even if Great Britain received a substantial preference the tariff still remaining against British manufacturers should be so high as to relieve the Canadian manufacturer from any real competition. So long as this attitude is maintained the interests of the farmers of this country will be directly opposed to the interests of the manufacturers, as set forth by their organization and its agents.

Edmonton Bulletin—That the rank and file of the Conservative of Canada are equally attached to the old lands and equally ready to assume a fair share of the cost and responsibility of helping defend the Empire has never been doubted. The only party in Canada that has been under suspicion on the matter in our Nationalist-ridden Ministry. The Government, though it uses the name of one of the older parties as a mask, is no more Conservative than it is Liberal. It is a coalition representing an alliance between the highbinders of finance and a noisy faction which whoops its antagonism to Britain from the house-tops.

The country really seems to be settled and fixed in the convention habit.

We can't avoid the suspicion that the weather man is a person of temperament and runs to extremes.

If you want to see a project boomed select a strong contrary person to lay it before and then proceed to give perfectly good reasons why it shouldn't be favored.

Last Words of the G

Half of the store of "History" treasured by the curious and the phlegmatic Pitt cried out not as to have it as to the state of the world but for a pork pie, and Nature uttered neither lamentation nor eulogy, but desired to know if the man at his side had been at the falling lips of the great as to frame some pious or patriotic motto, and if they fall then it is a coin for them. "Death is a moralizing," said Disraeli, his own end was in sight, "a counted upon by the English." He did not contribute to the but one phrase escaped him, "I suffered much," he sighed, "I was a nihilist I should have said." What lay behind those two critics can be found in Dundee Advertiser.

HER TWO QUESTIONS.

One Was Answered Before and the Other After Marriage.

A silvery summer moon shone sweetly on the likewise silvery sands.

The summer sweethearts sat in silence. She was gazing up at the dim blue vault over them, where the little stars twinkled in a million tiny points of flame. He was gazing at her as if he'd like to eat her.

"Dearie, what makes the stars shine
so dimly tonight?" she gurgled.

"They are outshone by the glorious light of your eyes, my darling," he whispered foolishly, "and so they pale in their splendor and—er—and—"

He didn't know how to go on, so he kissed her instead. And she was quite satisfied, perfectly content and glad.

And a solemn silence enwrapped the summer night.

Same moon, same sands, same people—only they are married now.

"I wonder how many telegraph
poles," she murmured thoughtfully, "it would take to reach from here to the moon."

He looked at her as if he'd like to bite her.

"One, if it was long enough," he snapped. "Don't ask such silly questions!"

And a solemn silence enwrapped the summer night.—London Answers.

DOGS OF ALASKA.

A Story That Illustrates Their Wonderful Intelligence.

Dogs on the trail often display intelligence that seems almost human. On one occasion I remember I was driving a team of dogs down the Yukon river
and had one dog in the team called Tommy, who was a good dog in his way, but who showed a strong dislike to being harnessed—to such an extent that in the morning, when all the other dogs were hitched to the sleigh, Tommy would hide himself under a cabin or bury himself in the snow.

This continued for several mornings,
and beating him seemed to have no effect. One morning, however, the team had been standing in the cold waiting for Master Tommy. I finally discovered him hiding under the roots of a tree, and as soon as I came in sight,
dragging the dog, the entire team, moved by a common impulse, bounded toward me and at once administered a terrible thrashing to Tommy.

I finally rescued him from his angry companions, and after that Tommy was always the first to put his head
in the collar in answer to my whistle.

The Ink Bag Squid.

When the squid is alarmed the ink
bag that connects with the siphon opens its valve and a cloud of black fluid is ejected into the water, where it becomes quickly diffused, forming an effectual bar to pursuit. The squid also have a faculty of changing their color with great rapidity, and when laboring under great excitement waves

of color seem to pass over them in quick succession. Their motions are extremely rapid, darting along with the velocity of light, now rushing into a school of small fry tall first, turning quickly to seize a victim and press it against the birdlike beak, where, by making triangular nips, the vertebrae is generally instantly severed. It is interesting to note that the bite is always in the same place—the neck.—
Charles Frederick Holder.

Eton and Harrow.

One of the Eton and Harrow school cricket matches recalls an amusing incident. Eton had a monotonous series of wins for some years, and one day the Harrow captain received the following:

O ye boys of Harrow school,
Of cricket ye have no knowledge!
It is not cricket, but the fool,
You play against Eton college.

The Harrow school poet was hunted out and commanded to send a fitting reply. This clever response made him famous:

If, as you say, we play the fool,
No wonder we were beaten,
For at that game no other school
Could e'er compete with Eton.

Aliens in Old London.

Here is a curious report of the aliens
in London in the year 1567: "There being a great increase of foreigners in the city, her majesty ordered the lord mayor to take the name, quality and profession of all strangers residing within the city of London." The list was headed by the item, "Scots, 40."
Other nations were represented by
"French, 428; Spaniards and Portuguese, 45; Italians, 140; Dutch, 2,030; Burgundians, 44; Danes, 2; Liegeois, 1."

Her Costume.

"Marie," asked the star of her maid, gazing perplexedly at her reflection in the mirror, "what was I about to do—step into the bathtub or go on the stage?"

Marie shrugged her shoulders. "How can I tell? Mademoiselle is dressed for either."—Judge.

A JACK TAR AFLOAT

THE NAVY IS NO PLACE FOR THE SLUGGARD.

The Jacky Starts at Five In the Morning and His Day's Work and Play Is Carefully and Rigorously Allotted to Him Until Bedtime—Thursdays and Sunday Afternoons Are Holidays For the Men.

If jack tar does not have a good time afloat as well as ashore, it is his own fault; for, although he has plenty of work to harden his muscles and give him a good appetite for his boiled "duff," he has at least plenty of time to enjoy himself in such ways as are dear to his heart.

There are no sluggards aboard a man-o'-war; and every Jack of them all rubs his sleepy eyes open at five o'clock in the summer, and an hour later in the winter, to the blare of the bugle, and the shouting of the bosun's mates, "Show a leg there! Arise and shine, 'rise and shine! All ha-and-lash-up-and-stow-hammocks." In the twinkling of an eye he is wide awake, and begins another day's round by lashing his bedding in his hammock, with seven turns of his hammock-lashing, and is then ready, with a rare appetite, for his breakfast of cocoa and bread or biscuit, for which half an hour is his allowance.

Then follows a long spell of work and drill until noon, with a quarter-of-an-hour's "stand easy" at eight o'clock, when Jack is at liberty to enjoy the pipe he has earned, or to repair to the mess for such supplementary breakfast as he requires. And we may be sure that, four hours later, the shrill note of the bosun's pipe that summons him to dinner, falls like music on his ears, for if ever a man has right and appetite for a good square meal it is "Jack" at "eight bells."

There is no laggard in the joint rush, at the bidding of the pipe, to the cook's galley, from which rise mingled odors of baked meats, vegetables, and the succulent "duffs," so dear to Jack's heart. It is no Sybarite's meal that awaits these hundreds of hungry sailors—it may be salt pork, with pea-soup, or salt beef and pudding, or liberal portions of preserved beef or mutton, familiarly known as "Fanny Adams," with potatoes or rice on alternate days. But whatever it is, it is good and plentiful, and does not require the sauce of hunger to make it appetizing.

Nor is the meal prepared by any cunning chef. Every member of every lower deck mess takes his turn to cook, though he may know as little of cooking as of quadratics, and the results may at times be more startling than agreeable. It is the duty of the day's cook to get the provisions for his mess from the issuing room, where ship's stewards officiate; and, after manufacturing the meal from his raw materials, to carry it to the ship's cook for its final stages, which no doubt do much to remedy the inexperienced work of the mess-cook.

At "one bell" (half-past twelve) the bugle-call, known and beloved as "Nancy Dawson," rallies the forces to the grog-tub for the daily distribution of rum; a ceremonial as popular in the time of Nelson as in our own. The day's allowance of grog is mixed with scrupulous care in an enormous tub which bears on its bulging side, in large

A Public Court Trial in Which the Most Prominent People Will Participate

Among the most successful popular entertainments of the season are the Mock Court Trials given under the direction of an expert-Newton, the well-known lecturer of Worcester, Mass.

Many citizens in various parts of the country, have been greatly over them, as attested by the numerous and favorable reports in the newspapers, and best of all, the great audiences that have filled the largest halls and opera houses; in many cases the ticket price being so great that every seat was sold in advance and hundreds of people were unable to obtain room.

One of these popular entertainments will be given under the auspices of the Argyll Lodge No. 212, I.O.C. Brisco Opera House, on Monday, October 21st. It will be a most interesting and prominent citizens has been with the affections of a beautiful widow of this town, who has promised to answer to the promise suit brought against her, and there will be fun with it. Indeed, it is safe to predict that many moons before the Brisco Opera House will again be filled with so much laughter as was heard on that occasion. Interest will be created in the fact that a large number of our prominent people will be present. All the rules of a regular court of justice will be observed.

The crowd will be large at the Plowing Match, To be held on Oct. 15th.

ROBERT B. BARTON DIES VERY SUDDENLY

(Watertown Daily Times, 8 Oct. 15th.)

Robert Allen Barton, aged 58, an ex-president of the villa Park, and one of the best known men in this part of the state, died very suddenly this morning about 10 in the City Park, which he was the proprietor of at the time of his death. He was a member of the R. Mearns, president of the common council.

Mr. Barton had suffered from indigestion for some time, and this with a weakening of the system, what caused his death. He had conducted a farm this year in connection with the hotel, and given him a great amount of work. He had shown signs of fatigue for some time. Last Monday he was taken ill, and Dr. G. S. Farmer was called to attend him for indigestion. Barton was apparently in good health until the time of his death.

He had intended coming to the business section of the city this morning, and he asked Mr. Mearns to take charge of the cafe during his absence. To this Mr. Mearns assented, and they went into the bar hotel together.

Suddenly Barton clutched his throat and said: "Mearns, I'm choked up, I don't know what's the matter. He then started for the

of rum; a ceremonial as popular in the time of Nelson as in our own. The day's allowance of grog is mixed with scrupulous care in an enormous tub which bears on its bulgy side, in large brass letters, some such loyal words as "The King, God bless him." Three parts of water to one of rum go to the mixing, and the grog is served out by a petty officer and the marine sergeant of the guard to the waiting queue of mess-cooks — as many half-pints to each as there are men awaiting them in his mess. Every tar above the age of eighteen is entitled to his half-pint; and those who have no taste for it are allowed to draw money instead at the rate of 3 1-2 cents every two days.

His dinner, his grog, and his pipe serve to pass an hour and a quarter very agreeably for our sailor, and occasionally it furnishes him with an opportunity to make a few cheap additions to his wardrobe, for the dinner hour is found a convenient time for disposing by auction of the effects of men who have deserted or are dead, and it is often possible to pick up a white duck-tunic or other article of raiment for a very small fraction of its cost.

At 1.15 Jack is ready, at the bugle-call, to resume work—cleaning guns, or whatever it may be, but on Sundays and Thursdays he is indulged with an "afternoon off." This is Jack's opportunity for doing a little tailor's work on his own account, and he spends many a happy afternoon, pipe in mouth, on the upper deck "making and mending clothes," with a skill the slop-shop worker might well envy; for Jack is noted for his clever needle-work.

But the needle has no monopoly of Thursday afternoons. This is the time also sacred to the rites of the "scrub-bag," with its mysterious contents. A warship, as we all know, must be kept as spick and span as the sitting room of the most careful housewife. If Jack carelessly leaves any of his property about—as, of course, he often does—from a tunic and a towel to a book or a pound of tobacco, the hand of the ship's corporal pounces on it, and in it goes into the capacious canvas-bag, there to be imprisoned until the hour of liberation comes. Every Thursday afternoon the bag, full of its miscellaneous booty, is opened, and each article is claimed by one or other of the sailors crowding around, its owner being allowed to redeem his property by the payment of a penny fine—the price of an inch of yellow soap—for every derelict article that is his.

But Jack is not only a skillful needleman, he is also an accomplished "washerwoman," as he proves on the evenings which he spends periodically, with his arms in the soap-suds, restoring his clothes to a virginal whiteness, and if he is a good cobbler or a deft wielder of the razor he can put many an extra pound into his pocket by operating on his fellows' boots and chins.

Salmon Loaf.

For a delicious salmon loaf use two cans of salmon and a loaf of stale bread. Reject the crusts of the bread and remove the bones from the salmon. Break the bread into crumbs and the salmon into flakes and mix them together. Moisten with two beaten eggs, a tablespoonful of melted butter and one or two teaspoonfuls of lemon juice, with salt and pepper to taste. Add a tablespoonful of cream if not moist enough. Butter a bread tin and put the mixture into it. Bake the loaf for an hour or until thoroughly done. Serve with a cream sauce or a white sauce sprinkled with minced parsley.

W.C.T.U. CONVENTION

The third annual convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of the counties of Hastings, Lennox
and Addington was held in Trinity Church on Oct. 2nd and 3rd. In the absence of the President through illness, Mrs. Miller, first Vice-President, presided and conducted the devotional exercises.

The Corresponding Secretary reported 6 unions, Frankford, Madoc, Newburgh, Napanee, Belleville and Belleville "Y" with a membership of 193 active and 27 honorary. Total money raised for all purposes, $553.006.

The Plan of Work and Resolution Committees were combined and Mesdames Rockwell, Gibson and Laidley
and Misses Nicholson and McClatchie
were appointed. Mrs. J. M. Denyes and Mrs. Gibbard were committee on Courtesy.

The reports from superintendents of departments and discussions arising from them took the balance of morning session.

Mrs. Geo. Wartman, 3rd Vice-President, opened the afternoon session with a Bible reading, which contained a special message in the words of Jesus, "If I am with thee I am more than all that can be against thee."

A letter from Mrs. J. Williams, President, was read expressing her heartfelt interest in the work and inciting the hearers to still greater efforts.

The President's address by Mrs.
Miller was full of good suggestions.
She thought there was much need for greater effort and that temperance and missionary work go hand in hand.

Mrs. W. Pugsley, Toronto, Provincial Superintendent of Law Enforcement, was introduced and made a member of convention. Her helpful suggestions were highly valued by the ladies throughout the convention.

Mrs. M. J. Bennett, Belleville, Superintendent of Mothers' Meetings,
gave a most encouraging report.
These meetings are not for poor
mothers alone they are for all mothers, particularly young mothers. The magazine, "American Motherhood," was highly recommended for mothers
to read.

Miss McClatchie, superintendent of flower, fruit and delicacy department,
thought every union should take up this work. They should have text cards with a bow of white ribbon attached to be sent with the flowers or fruit, or better still, taken and left after the call. These left with the sick and shut-in would convey their message of love.

Miss Nesbitt's solo, "My Task," was a very pleasing change and very appropriate with its leading thought,
"To do my best."

Mrs. A. W. Grange gave an interesting paper on Woman's Franchise.
Women need education on the political issues of the day that they may be able to intelligently discuss national affairs.

Miss E. Farley urged that Meda-Contest Department be taken up by all the unions as it interested outsiders
and brought the W.C.T.U. work before the public.

The evening session was held in Grace Church, Rev. J. P. Wilson presiding. The choir sang "Onward Christian Soldiers," and Rev. Mr.
Sellery led in prayer. After a few opening remarks by the chairman, Mrs. (Rev.) Howard sang a solo very sweetly. Then Mrs. Pugsley was called to the platform and introduced to the audience. Mrs. Pugsley gave the address of the evening. She reviewed the early aspects of temperance in the old land and showed a little by con-

The continuance of last year's plan

2.—That an educational campaign be carried on along the lines of intendent after appointment should at once communicate with the local

doing, what they aim to do and out-

and not stop with one letter but write at least quarterly insisting upon re-

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Oct. 7.—There was a fair
enquiry from the continent for wheat, oats and barley, but the demand from the United Kingdom was poor. Cables were generally weaker on wheat, and the prices bid were so far out of line that no business was reported. The bids out of were good, but, as exporters are out of supplies, and none are to hand, none of the orders were accepted. Some business is being done in barley. The local trade in oats is quiet. A sale of 10,000 bushels of Ontario matting barley was made at 84c. Flour fairly active and steady. Mill-feed firm. Butter strong, with prices tending higher. Cheese quiet and easy.
Exports for week were 8,942 boxes, as against 106,140 a year ago. Eggs firm, under a good demand.

to the platform and introduced to the audience. Mrs. Pugsley gave the address of the evening. She reviewed the early aspects of temperance in the old land and showed a little by contrast between a hundred years ago and now. She told the story of the beginning of the W.C.T.U. She told how one timid woman, to save her husband, went to the bar-room and asked permission to kneel and pray. The proprietor knelt with her there among his kegs. When they arose after that prayer the proprietor said he had sold his last glass of liquor and immediately destroyed his stock. This woman's son, afterwards the famous Dr. Lewis, lectured on hygiene and heredity and through his influence and his Mother's the saloons were prayed out of their town and from there the movement spread to other towns. Thus the work has gone on until the Woman's Christian Temperance Union is recognized all over the world as a power in temperance and moral reform. She paid a tribute to the present Government for the efforts they had made towards a better enforcement of the license law. For an hour she held the attention of the audience and much useful information was given on local option and the laws governing it.

The meeting closed with an anthem by the choir and the benediction by Rev. Dr. Howard.

This was followed by an address on "White Slave Traffic," by Mrs. Pugsley. She urged parents and any others who knew of young girls going to the city of Toronto, without a chaperone, to tell them of the "Francis Willard Home," for girls and of the "Travellers' Aid" in the garb of a Deaconess, at the Union Station, who would direct them or accompany them where they wanted to go.

who is a great social and financial power. The father, a prominent man in the smart set, disowns his son on discovering he has married a girl whose father has gained much unpleasant notoriety in police annals of New York. The girl, realizing her position, has made a gallant struggle to win the respect of the world through her fine character and natural ability.

The young husband, disowned by his father, scorned and rebuffed on every hand by his friends, who assert that he has made a mistake and that his marriage is a mesalliance, resorts to drink and dissipation. The story deals with a crime which, by reason the quick, impulsive judgment of the police heads, results in fastening the guilt on an innocent man. Finding they must make good their first suspicions, they bend every effort to the one end—that of fastening the chain of guilt on their victim. The method of the police department, together with the powerful influence of the press are vividly shown. For the first time on any stage, the audience is treated to a visual demonstration of the workings of the detective department of a large city. As clearly and distinctly as were the workings of the powerful finance and political bodies in "The Lion and the Mouse," so are the nefarious practices of the police discussed in "The Third Degree," even in a more vivid and interesting manner. This fine production will appear at the Brisco Opera House on Wednesday, October 23rd.

Yarker Circuit.

The Sunday School rallies held last Sabbath at Moscow, Petworth and Yarker were fine successes in the best sense. The day being ideal for weather, large audiences were present at these churches. The rally program was well sustained in its rendering by the various schools. The address given at Moscow by Mr. Joseph Foster on "Our Flags" was pronounced excellent. The offerings for the day were most satisfactory. The Yarker congregation crowded the church at night and the singing of the rally songs was inspiring. Petworth put up a larger congregation, better rendered program and larger offering than ever before. Colebrook rally was given one week before, and though a rainy day did excellently. Nov. the 10th, the World's Temperance Sunday is to be observed by the Methodist Church of the Napanee district as Campaign Day for Temperance and Moral Reform when the temperance lesson, Hosea 7, 1-10, will be taught, special temperance addresses delivered in every Sunday School. All the Methodist ministers of the district will exchange pulpits and an offering will be taken in all Sunday Schools, Leagues and congregations in behalf of the Temperance and Moral Reform Departments of the Methodist church. The plan of exchange of ministers on the Napanee district for the World's Temperance Sunday, Nov. 10th, is as follows:

Napanee Trinity—J. P. Wilson, a. m., S. Selley, p. m.

Napanee Grace—R. Burns, a. m., J. P. Wilson, p. m.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Oct. 7.—At the Montreal Stock Yards west end market the receipts of live stock for the week ending Oct. 5 were 2300 cattle, 4900 sheep and lambs, 2450 hogs and 500 calves, while the supplies on the market this morning for sale amounted to 1000 cattle, 4200 sheep and lambs, 1150 hogs and 375 calves.

The market for cattle was weaker this morning, and prices were fully 25c to 50c per 100 pounds lower than this day week, which was attributed to the steady supply. The trade opened slow and was of a dragging nature thruout the day, as butchers and packers did not show a disposition to operate freely. Sales of a few picked, choice steers were made at $6.75, while an odd lot or two changed hands at $6.50, and fair to good cattle brought from $5 to $5.50 per 100 pounds. There was a good demand for canners, of which the supply was large, and sales of bulls were made at $2.75 to $3, and cows at $2.25 to $2.50 per 100 pounds.

The receipts of sheep and lambs were large. A good many had been contracted for by packers last week, consequently the offerings on the market were not in excess of the requirements, and the feeling was steady. The demand for lambs was good, and sales of Ontario stock were made at $5.75 to $6, and Quebec at $5.25 to $5.50 per 100 pounds. Ewe sheep sold at $3.50 to $3.75, and bucks and culls at $3 to $3.25 per 100 pounds. The tone of the market for calves was firm under a good demand and small supplies, and sales of choice, milk-fed stock were made at 7c to 7½c per pound.

A strong feeling developed in the market for hogs, owing to the smaller offerings, and prices as compared with a week ago show an advance of 10c to 25c per 100 pounds. The demand was good from packers, and an active trade was done, with sales of selected lots at $3.75 to $3.90 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars.

Butchers' cattle, choice, $6.50 to $6.75; do., medium, $4.50 to $5; do., common, $3.75 to $4.25; canners, $2.25 to $3; butchers' cattle, choice cows, $4.75 to $5; do., medium, $4.25 to $4.50; do., bulls, $2.75 to $3.25; milkers, choice, each, $70 to $80; do., common and medium, each, $50 to $60; springers, $40 to $45.

Sheep, ewes, $3.50 to $3.75; bucks and culls, $3 to $3.25. Lambs, $5.25 to $6.

Hogs, f.o.b., $3.75 to $3.90.

Calves, $5 to $15.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Oct. 7.—Cattle—Receipts, 4700 head; active and 10c to 15c higher; prime steers, $9.25 to $9.50; butchers' $8 to $8.25; bulls, $4.25 to $4.50; stock heifers, $4 to $4.75; shipping, $7.50 to $8.50; heifers, $5 to $7.50; cows, $3 to $6.25; stockers and feeders, $4.50 to $6.75; fresh cows and springers steady, $35 to $75.

Hogs—Receipts, 14,500 head; slow and steady to 5c lower; heavy, $9.45 to $9.55; mixed, $9.25 to $9.50; yorkers, $8.75 to $9.50; pigs, $8.40 to $8.50; roughs, $8.25 to $8.50; stags, $5.50 to $7.70; dairies, $9 to $9.40; grassers, $9 to $9.35.

Root Culture.

In a paper read before the Senate Committee on Agriculture and Forestry, Mr. John Fixter, Farm Superintendent at Macdonald College, Quebec, takes the ground that dairymen and beef producers find that when roots are fed, animals keep in better condition, and the flow of milk and the production of flesh increase with lessened cost. Poultry keepers and hog raisers find that when there is no grass, roots form the best and cheapest substitute. There is nothing fed to animals that is more relished. Roots appear to act as a tonic and help to make all dry feed palatable. Mr. Fixter points out that the average yield of roots over Canada is 402.36 bushels per acre and that yield secured at the Macdonald College farm was more than 1000 bushels per acre. He goes on to describe how large yields may be secured in every province of the Dominion and tells how to successfully harvest and store the crop. This paper, which is issued in pamphlet form for free distribution by the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, concludes by saying that the greatest success in growing roots will be obtained when the following are observed: A systematic rotation of crops; roots to follow a fresh clover sod; manure once in the rotation; thorough cultivation in preparation for the crop and after the roots are sown.

PASTOR RUSSELL AT ILLINOIS STATE FAIR

Honor to the Son Means Honor to the Father Also.

The Work of Calvary Progressing, but Far From Finished—The Selection of the Elect Church Is the Beginning, Not the Completion, of the Divine Purpose.

Springfield, Ill.,
Oct. 6.—Pastor
Russell arrived yesterday, the guest of the State Board. In his evening address
the text was taken from Philippians ii, 10, 11: "At the name of Jesus every knee shall bow
and every tongue
confess."

Pastor Russell
drew attention to the fact that for half a century the world has been undergoing a most marvelous revolution
along the lines of increase of knowledge. He referred briefly to the share of Illinois in this onward march of intelligence. This, he said, is plainly manifest at this Fair in the wonderful display of labor-saving devices, etc.

He remarked on the school exhibitions and what they indicate of the progress of general knowledge even amongst the young. He remarked also on the improved breeds of live stock, poultry, etc. This progress belongs to the last fifty years. The fruits and vegetables also, he declared, remind
one of Paradise and lead us to wonder if there could have been more nearly perfect fruit and vegetables
there.

Glorious Epoch Beginning.

These things are corroborative of the Bible testimony that we are at the threshold of a glorious Epoch, called in the Scriptures The Reign of Christ for a Thousand Years. Our blessings are the foregleams of coming blessings, which, undoubtedly, will be manifold greater. The Scriptures, he declared, tell not only of the Six Great Days of the Reign of Sin and Death (each day a thousand years),
but also of the Great Seventh Day of a thousand years—the Sabbath of rest
from toil and sweat of face, the rolling away of the Curse and the pouring out of God's blessing.

So accustomed have we become to the Reign of Sin and Death that many incline to think it the normal condition. But not so. There is no sin in heaven, and the Bible explains that there will be no evidences of the curse on earth at the close of Mes-siah's Reign. Father Adam's disobedience and sin brought the curse,
"Dying thou shalt die."

"In God's Due Time."

Long ago the Omnipotent One could have bound or have destroyed Satan
and all rebellious to the Divine arrangements. On the contrary God has permitted evil as a great lesson, until He shall be ready to establish His Kingdom. The foundation of all the coming blessings rest upon the sacrifice of Jesus at Calvary. But the first
direct result has been the gathering
of the Church, the Elect, from every nation and denomination. These pro-

FALL NECKWEAR.

Interesting New Models In Exclusive Collars and Jabots.

The collarless gown is the thing for fall wear, and nearly all gowns are made with V shaped necks, rather shallow, but low enough to reveal that pretty part of the throat just below its base. Collars and jabots are therefore made accordingly.

A sailor collar of white linen has a two inch band of blue and white figured linen stitched around its edge, and a bishop jabot of fine white linen has a plain blue border edging it. The

JABOT OF PLAITED LACE.

jabot is made with a slight V at the neck, with a flat bow of blue velvet ribbon at its base.

Another sailor collar of black satin extends just over the turn of the shoulders and is there met by long pointed revers of buff colored satin, trimmed
on their outer edge with frills of three inch wide ecru lace. These lap over from left to right in the front, outlining the V shaped neck of the blouse.
Not only the jabot of plaited lace seen in the illustration, but also the corded bodice over which it is worn, is most interesting. The bows on the jabot add a novel touch and match the satin
of which the waist is made.

THE TREASURE CHEST.

Just the Gift an Engaged Girl Will Appreciate.

For the engaged girl's treasure chest
an apron of the practical kind to be slipped on over a pretty frock will be thoroughly appreciated.

Probably the most useful kind is a studio apron, such as is used by the woman artist. Get a good pattern with sleeves reaching to the wrists and cut without too much fullness. Choose a pink gingham of fine quality or a clear black and white stripe which always washes well.

For the former trim the neck, which should be cut slightly square, and the sleeves with a two inch insertion of white embroidery and fasten at the back with white pearl buttons.

A somewhat dressier apron, though
not so useful for protection, is made

A Treatment That Costs Nothing If It Fails.

We want you to try three large bottles of Rexall "93" Hair Tonic on our personal guarantee that the trial will not cost you a penny if it does not give you absolute satisfaction. That's proof of our faith in this remedy, and it should indisputably demonstrate that we know what we are talking about when we say that Rexall "93"
Hair Tonic will retard baldness, overcome scalp and hair ailments, and if any human agency can accomplish this result, it may also be relied upon to promote a new growth of hair.

Remember we are basing our statements upon what has already been accomplished by the use of Rexall "93"

coming blessings rest upon the sacrifice of Jesus at Calvary. But the first
direct result has been the gathering
of the Church, the Elect, from every
nation and denomination. These protected in the First Resurrection, will constitute the Kingdom class, associated with the Redeemer in His glorious work of the future.

Many of us have not appreciated
the work of Christ in full; we thought that He died merely to assist the Church. As the Apostle says, He is indeed the Satisfaction for the Church's sins, "and not for ours only,
but also for the sins of the whole world." (I. John ii, 2.) His Church will be His associates in His great work of blessing all nations, kindreds, peoples and tongues for whom He died, "the Just for the unjust."

The Day is at Hand.

The marvels of our day are merely the foregleams of this Thousand-Year-Day of Messiah's Reign. But we must not expect all the good things that God has promised just yet. Human pride will first be brought low;
injustice will first have a great punishment—"a time of trouble such as never was since there was a nation."
—Daniel xii, 1.

The lifting of the veil of ignorance has been delayed until now because the effect of the knowledge in an unsanctified heart is to bring discontent. This is the meaning of the restless condition of the world to-day,
which is leading on to anarchy. God graciously withheld the light until now, so that the time of trouble resulting may be duly checked by His Kingdom, which is about to be set up,
and for which we have so long prayed, "Thy Kingdom come; Thy will be done on earth as in Heaven."

"Every Knee Shall Bow."

As Messiah's Kingdom shall progress
in its establishment, darkness, ignorance, superstition, will continue to yield before the light of the Sun of Righteousness, until the whole earth shall be filled with the knowledge of God, until the True Light shall lighten every man—until there shall be no need for one to say to his neighbor, Know thou the Lord, for all shall know Him.—Jeremiah xxxi, 33, 34.

In that glorious Day the world will have abundant opportunity, not only for knowing, but also for coming to obedience. The Redeemer will be the Helper, the glorious King, to reign and rule, and the glorious Priest, to instruct and uplift; and the Church will be His associates and joint-heirs.
The world will then get the great blessing of human restitution and uplift, and all who refuse the blessed opportunity shall be destroyed in the Second Death. Then will come to pass the promise of our text, that
"Every knee shall bow and every tongue confess, to the glory of God."

Poorly Paid Workers.

By women ironers in France 6 cents an hour is considered good pay. The minimum is 3 cents.

creases with a two inch insertion of
white embroidery and fasten at the
back with white pearl buttons.

A somewhat dressier apron, though
not so useful for protection, is made
like a waitress' apron with straps over the shoulders. A pretty effect is had with ecru or pale pink percale, the straps embroidered in a cross stitch band that is carried on each side to the bottom of the apron. The hem at bottom and sides is finished with a row of two chain stitching worked in the same cotton as the bands.

Three Canning Hints.

When canning berries lay the jars
on their sides instead of standing up,
as usual. Once in awhile give each jar
a little shake until entirely cold. It will be found that the berries are evenly distributed through the juice and not all on top of the jar.

In making jelly have a piece of thin muslin or cheesecloth handy, wet it and instead of "skimming" strain the jelly into the glasses through the cloth.
Your jelly will be clearer and you will have more of it.

For canning cut two holes in one side of a five gallon oil can, stick a piece of stovepipe in one, while the other hole is used to cook on. It takes very little fuel and makes less heat than the kitchen range, and all the canning can be done outdoors.

Filling For Cushions.

Housewives may make themselves
any number of pretty and inexpensive
summer cushions for the living room
or porch couch by cutting a roll of cotton batting into small squares and beating in a baking pan in the oven for a half hour, using this for filling, and covering with a dainty slip of some material which will wash well, such as flowered chintz or cretonne or some of Increasing Requirements.

Times are not what they used to be.
In days of yore you'd often see
A man of public size get by Because he had a piercing eye.
A lofty brow and solemn pose
And very loose, impressive clothes.
But now a statesman, like the rest,
Must shed his coat and do his best.

He has to toll new votes to win.
New theories he has to spin.
His mind and voice are ever racked.
He has to keep his suit case packed.
No more this greeting he extends,
"I'm in the hands of loving friends."
He has to shun repose and fun.
A man who runs these days must run!

THE THREE GUARDSMEN

By ALEXANDRE DUMAS

"Well, two words will refresh your memory. What have you done with that gentleman against whom you had the audacity about twelve days ago to make an accusation of passing bad money?"

The host became as pale as death, D'Artagnan having assumed a threatening attitude, and Planchet having modeled himself upon his master.

"Ah, monseigneur, do not mention it!" cried the host in the most pitiable voice imaginable. "Ah, seigneur, how dearly have I paid for that fault! Deign to listen to me, monseigneur, and be merciful. Sit down, I beg."

D'Artagnan, mute with anger and uneasiness, took a seat in the threatening attitude of a judge, Planchet looking fiercely over the back of his fauteuil.

"Here is the history, monseigneur," resumed the trembling host, "for I now recollect you. It was you who rode off at the moment I had that unfortunate difference with the gentleman you speak of. I had been warned by the authorities that a celebrated coiner of bad money would arrive at my place with several of his companions, all disguised as guards or musketeers. I was furnished with a description of your horses, your lackeys, your countenances—nothing was omitted."

"Go on, go on!" said D'Artagnan, who quickly conceived whence such an exact description had come.

"I took, then, in conformity with the orders of the authorities, who sent me a reinforcement of six men, such measures as I thought necessary to get possession of the persons of the pretended coiners."

from laughing at the pitiable face of the host.

"So that from that time, monsieur," continued the latter, "we have led the most miserable life imaginable, for you must know, monsieur, that all our provisions are in the cellar. We are forced to refuse food and drink to the travelers who come to the house, so that our hostelry is daily going to ruin."

"And not more than justice, neither, you stupid man. Could you not perceive by our appearance that we were people of quality and not coiners—say?"

"Yes, monsieur, you are right," said the host. "But, hark, hark; there he is in a passion again!"

"Somebody has disturbed him, no doubt," said D'Artagnan.

"But he must be disturbed!" cried the host. "Here are two English gentlemen just arrived!"

"Well?"

"Well, the English like good wine, as you may know, monsieur. These have asked for the best. My wife then requested permission of M. Athos to go into the cellar to satisfy these gentlemen, and he, as usual, has refused. Ah, there he is, louder than ever!"

D'Artagnan, in fact, heard a great noise on the side next the cellar. He rose and, preceded by the host, wringing his hands and followed by Planchet with his musketoon, ready for action, he approached the scene of action.

"But this is a tyranny," cried one of the Englishmen in very good French, though with a foreign accent, "that this madman will not allow these good people access to their own wine! Non-then endeavored to draw him from his moist abode, but to his surprise perceived that Athos staggered.

"Why, you are wounded!" said he.

"I? Not at all! I am dead drunk, that's all, and never did a man set about getting so better. Why, my good host, I must at least have drunk for my part 150 bottles."

"Oh," cried the host, "if the lackey has drunk only half as much as the master I am a ruined man."

In the meantime Grimaud appeared in his turn behind his master with his musketoon on his shoulder, and his head shaking like one of those drunken satyrs in the pictures of Rubens. He was moistened before and behind with a liquid which the host recognized as his best olive oil.

The procession crossed the public room and proceeded to take possession of the best apartment in the house, which D'Artagnan occupied by authority.

In the meantime the host and his wife hurried down with lamps into the cellar. A frightful spectacle awaited them. They found swimming in puddles of oil and wine the bones and fragments of all the hams eaten by Athos, while a heap of broken bottles filled the whole left hand corner of the cellar.

Then the lamentations of the host and hostess pierced the vault of the cellar. D'Artagnan himself was moved by them; Athos did not even turn his head.

But to grief succeeded rage. The host armed himself with a spit and rushed into the chamber occupied by the two friends.

"Some wine!" said Athos on perceiving the host.

"I have brought you another D'Artagnan."

"And a magnificent one to the host."

"Well, since there is an older and younger, why, you may old one and let us have some."

"Which?" asked the host cheerfully again.

"Some of that near the bottom of the laths; there are twenty-four of it left. Bring up six of it."

"And don't forget," said D'Artagnan, "to bring up four bottles of each sort for the two English gentlemen."

"And now," said Athos, "are bringing up the wine D'Artagnan, what has become of the others. Come!"

D'Artagnan related how he found Porthos in bed with knee and Aramis at a table with two theologians. D'Artagnan related his adventure with M. Athos. Athos listened to the perfect immobility of countenance when he had finished:

"Trifles, all that," said Athos, "but trifles." That was the impression.

"You always say trifles, Athos!" said D'Artagnan, "comes very ill from you, never been in love."

The drink deadened eyes flashed, but it was only for a moment it became dull and vacant as if "That's true," he said quietly to my part, I have never loved that love is a lottery, in which wins wins death! You are fated to have lost, believe me D'Artagnan."

"Oh, but she seemed to love."

"You boy! Why, there is a man who has not believed, that his mistress loved him, lives not a man who has not believed by his mistress. Your tune is laughable. I should know what you would say if I relate to you a real tale of love."

"Which concerns you?"

"Either me or one of my friends, what matters?"

"I am all attention," said D'Artagnan.

Athos collected himself, as he did so D'Artagnan that he became paler; he was in a period of intoxication in which drinkers fall and sleep. He himself upright and dreamed of sleeping. This somnambulism had something frightful.

"Be it done then, as you wish of my friends, please to come myself," said Athos, interrupting himself with a melancholy smile the counts of my province twenty-five years of age, with a girl of sixteen, beauty can paint. orders of the authorities, who sent a reinforcement of six men, such measures as I thought necessary to get possession of the persons of the pre-tended coñers."

"But, once again, that gentleman, where is he? What is become of him? Is he dead? Is he living?"

"That gentleman, your friend, defended himself desperately. Having placed two men hors de combat with his pistols, he retreated, fighting with his sword, with which he disabled one of my men and stunned me with a blow of the flat side of it."

"But," cried D'Artagnan, "Athos—what is become of Athos?"

"While fighting and retreating, as I have told monseigneur, he found the door of the cellar stairs behind him, and as the door was open, he took out the key and barricaded himself inside. As we were sure of finding him there, we left him alone."

"Yes," said D'Artagnan, "you did not particularly wish to kill him and so were satisfied with detaining him a prisoner."

"A prisoner, monseigneur? Why, he imprisoned himself. The two men that were wounded were carried off by their companions, and I have heard nothing of them since. I went to M. the Governor, to whom I related all that had passed, and whom I asked what I should do with my prisoner. But M. the Governor was all astonishment. He told me he knew nothing about the matter."

"But Athos!" cried D'Artagnan.

"As I was anxious to repair the wrongs I had done the prisoner," resumed the innkeeper, "I took my way straight to the cellar in order to set him at liberty. Ah, monsieur, he was no longer a man, he was a devil! To my offer of liberty, he replied that it was nothing but a snare and that before he came out he intended to impose his own conditions. I told him very humbly, for I could not conceal from myself the scrape I had got into by laying hands on one of his majesty's musketeers, I told him I was quite ready to submit to his conditions."

"In the first place," said he, "I insist upon having my lackey placed with me, fully armed." We hastened to obey this order, for you will please to understand, monsieur, we were disposed to do everything your friend could desire. M. Grimaud (he told us his name, he did, although he does not talk much), M. Grimaud, then, went down to the cellar, wounded as he was; then his master having received him, barricaded the door afresh and ordered us to remain quietly in our own bar."

"Well, where is Athos now?" cried D'Artagnan.

"In the cellar, monsieur. Ah, if you could but persuade him to come out, monsieur!"

"Then he is there? I shall find him there?"

"Without doubt you will, monsieur. He persists in remaining there. We every day pass through the loophole some bread at the end of a fork and some meat when he asks for it; but, alas, it is not of bread and meat that he makes the greatest consumption."

"So that from that time"—replied D'Artagnan, totally unable to refrain

the Englishmen in very good French, though with a foreign accent, "that this madman will not allow these good people access to their own wine! Nonsense! Let us break open the door, and if he is too far gone in his madness—well, we will kill him!"

"Softly, gentlemen," said D'Artagnan, drawing his pistols from his belt, "there is nobody to be killed, if you please."

"Good, good!" cried Athos from the other side of the door. "Let them just come in, these devourers of little children, and we shall see!"

Brave as they appeared to be, the two English gentlemen looked at each other hesitatingly. There was a moment of silence, but at length the two Englishmen felt ashamed to draw back, and the more angry one descended the five or six steps which led to the cellar and gave a kick against the door enough to split a wall.

"Planchet," said D'Artagnan, cocking his pistols, "I will take charge of the one at the top; you look to the one below. Now, gentlemen, if it's battle you want you shall have it."

"Ah!" cried the hollow voice of Athos, "I can hear D'Artagnan, I think."

"Yes," cried D'Artagnan, "I am here!"

The gentlemen had drawn their swords, but they found themselves taken between two fires. They still hesitated an instant, but, as before, pride prevailed, and a second kick split the door from bottom to top.

"Stand on one side," cried D'Artagnan, "stand on one side!" cried Athos. "I am going to fire!"

"Gentlemen," exclaimed D'Artagnan, whom reflection never abandoned, "gentlemen, think of what you are about! Patience, Athos! You are running your heads into a very silly affair. You will be riddled. My lackey and I will have three shots at you, and you will get as many from the cellar. You will then have our swords, with which, I can assure you, my friend and I can play tolerably well. Let me conduct your business and my own. You shall soon have something to drink, I give you my word. Gentlemen, return your swords to their scabbards."

"We will provided you replace your pistols in your belt."

"Willingly."

And D'Artagnan set the example. Then, turning toward Planchet, he made him a sign to uncock his musketoon.

The Englishmen, overcome by these peaceful proceedings, sheathed their swords grumblingly. The history of Athos' imprisonment was then related to them, and as they were really gentlemen they pronounced the host in the wrong.

"Now, gentlemen," said D'Artagnan, "go up to your room again and in ten minutes, I will answer for it, you shall have all you desire."

The Englishmen bowed and went upstairs.

"Now I am alone, my dear Athos," said D'Artagnan, "open the door, I beg of you."

An instant after the broken door was removed and the pale face of Athos appeared, who with a rapid glance took a survey of the environs.

D'Artagnan threw himself on his neck and embraced him tenderly. He

"Some wine," cried the stupefied host, "some wine! Why, you have drunk more than 100 pistoles' worth! I am a ruined man, lost, destroyed! You shall pay me for all this!"

"You triple ass!" said Athos, rising, but he sank down again immediately. He had tried his strength to the utmost. D'Artagnan came to his relief, with his whip in his hand.

The host drew back and burst into tears.

"My dear friend," said D'Artagnan, "if you stun us in this manner we

"Oh, gentlemen, gentlemen!" said the host. "I am a poor innkeeper; you will have pity on me."

"Come hither, and let us talk the matter over," said Athos. "At the moment I was about to pay you I had placed my purse, with 60 pistoles, on the table. Where is it?"

"Deposited in the justice's office; they said it was bad money."

"Very well; get me my purse back and keep the 60 pistoles."

"But monseigneur knows very well that justice never lets go that which it once lays hold of. If it were bad money, there might be some hopes, but unfortunately they are all good pieces."

"Come," said D'Artagnan, "let us try further; Athos' horse, where is that?"

"In the stable."

"It's worth 80 pistoles, take it, and there ends the matter."

"What?" cried Athos, "are you selling my horse, my Bajazet? And pray upon what shall I make my campaign, upon Grimaud?"

"I was pretty drunk yesterday, D'Artagnan," said he. "I would lay a wager I uttered a thousand absurdities."

"No," replied D'Artagnan. "If I recollect what you said it was nothing out of the common way."

"Indeed, you surprise me. I thought I had related a most lamentable history to you?" And he looked at the young man as if he would read to the very depths of his heart.

"Oh," said D'Artagnan, "it would appear that I was more drunk than you, since I remember nothing of the kind."

But this did not deceive Athos, and he resumed:

"I certainly never will get drunk again, D'Artagnan—it is too bad a habit."

D'Artagnan remained silent.

Then Athos, changing the conversation all at once:

"By the bye, I thank you for the horse you have brought me," said he. "I have parted with him."

"How?"

"Why, here is the simple fact: This morning I awoke at 6 o'clock. You were still fast asleep, and I did not know what to do with myself. I was still stupid from our yesterday's debauch. As I came into the public room I saw one of our Englishmen bargaining with a dealer for a horse, his own having died yesterday from bleeding. I drew near and found he was bidding 100 pistoles for a fine chestnut nag. 'My good gentleman, I have a horse to sell, too,' said I.

"Ay, and a very fine one! I saw him yesterday—your friend's lackey was leading him."

"Do you think he is worth 100 pistoles?"

"Yes; will you sell him to me for that sum?"

"No; but I will play at dice for him."

"No sooner said than done, and I lost the horse. Ah, ah! but please to observe I won back the caparison," cried Athos.

D'Artagnan looked much discontented.

"That horse was to have assisted in making us known in the day of battle. It was a pledge—a remembrance. Athos, you have done very wrong."

"It vexes me greatly," continued Athos, "that you attach so much importance to these animals, for I am not yet at the end of my story."

"What else have you done?"

"After having lost my own horse, nine against ten—see how near—I formed an idea of staking yours."

"Yes—but you stopped at the idea, I hope?"

"No; for I put it in execution that very minute."

"And the consequence?" said D'Artagnan in great anxiety.

"I threw, and I lost."

"What, my horse?"

"Your horse."

"Athos, this is frightful!"

"Stop a minute; you don't know all yet. I should make an excellent gambler if I were not too hot headed; but I became so, just as if I were drinking. Well, I was hot headed then"—

MOTHER OF LARGE FAMILY

Tells How She Keeps Her Health—Happiness For Those Who Take Her Advice.

Scottville, Mich.—"I want to tell you how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash have done me. I live on a farm and have worked very hard. I am forty-five years old, and am the mother of thirteen children. Many people think it strange that I am not broken down with hard work and the care of my family, but I tell them of my good friend, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and that there will be no backache and bearing down pains for them if they will take it as I have. I am scarcely ever without it in the house.

"I will say also that I think there is no better medicine to be found for young girls. My eldest daughter has taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for painful periods and irregularity, and it has helped her.

"I am always ready and willing to speak a good word for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I tell every one I meet that I owe my health and happiness to your wonderful medicine." —Mrs. J. G. JOHNSON, Scottville, Mich., R F D. 3.

particularly anxious to preserve the furniture."

"Stake your diamond, then."

"This No, thank you; that's quite another thing. Never, never!"

"Well," said Athos, "I would propose to you to stake Planchet, but as that has already been done, the Englishman would not, perhaps, be willing. Try one throw."

"And if I lose?"

"Well, you will surrender the furniture."

"I will try one throw," said D'Artagnan.

Athos went in search of the Englishman, whom he found in the stable examining the furniture with a greedy eye. The opportunity was good. He proposed the conditions—the two furnitures against one horse or 100 pistoles to choose. The Englishman consented.

D'Artagnan threw the dice with a trembling hand and turned up the number three. His paleness terrified Athos, who, however, contented himself with saying:

"That's a sad throw, comrade. You will have the horses fully equipped,

at his window.

"Hola! Ha, Aramis! What are you doing there?" cried they.

"Ah! Is that you, D'Artagnan, and you, Athos?" said the young man. "I was reflecting upon the rapidity with which the blessings of this world leave us, and my English horse, which has just disappeared amid a cloud of dust, has furnished me with a living image of the fragility of things of the earth. I have just been duped. Sixty louis for a horse which by the manner in which he goes can do at least five leagues an hour."

D'Artagnan and Athos burst into a loud laugh.

"My dear D'Artagnan," said Aramis, "don't be too angry with me, I beg of you. Necessity has no law. Besides, I am the person punished, as that rascally horse dealer has robbed me of 50 pistoles at least. Ah, you fellows are good managers. You ride on your lackeys' horses and have your own gallant steeds led along carefully by hand at short stages."

At the same instant a market cart, which had for some minutes appeared upon the Amiens road, pulled up at the inn, and Planchet and Grimaud got out of it with the saddles on their heads. The carter was going to Paris and had agreed, on condition of being prevented from feeling thirst upon the road, to convey the lackeys and their gardens thither.

"How is all this?" said Aramis, on seeing them arrive. "Nothing but saddles?"

"Now do you understand?" said Athos.

"Oh, yes, all alike. I retained my furniture by instinct. Hola, Bazin! Bring my new saddle and carry it with those of these gentlemen."

They made a halt for an hour to refresh their horses. Aramis discharged his bill, placed Bazin in the cart with his comrades, and they set forward to join Porthos.

They found him up, less pale than when D'Artagnan left him and seated at a table on which, though he was alone, was spread enough for four persons. This dinner consisted of viands nicely dressed, choice wines and superb fruit.

"Ah," said he, rising, "you come in the nick of time. Gentlemen, I was just beginning the potage, and you will dine with me."

"Do you know what we are eating here?" said Athos, at the expiration of about ten minutes. "We are all eating horseflesh."

"Eating what?" said D'Artagnan.

"Horseflesh!" said Aramis, with a look of disgust.

Porthos alone made no reply.

"Yes, real horse. Are we not, Porthos, eating a horse—and perhaps his saddle?"

"No, no, gentlemen; I have kept the furniture," said Porthos.

"Well," said Aramis, "we are all bad alike. One would think we acted upon agreement."

"Then your duchess is still taking the waters?" asked D'Artagnan of Porthos.

"Yes, still," replied Porthos. "And the governor of the province, one of the gentlemen I expected today, seemed to have such a wish for him that I gave him to him."

"Well, but what else could you play

"Oh! yes, yes, my friend; there was still that diamond left which sparkles
 on your finger, and which I observed yesterday."

"This diamond!" said D'Artagnan, placing his hand eagerly on his ring.

"And as I am a connoisseur in such things, having had a few of my own
 once, I estimated it at 1,000 pistoles."

"I hope," said D'Artagnan, half dead with fright, "you made no mention of my diamond?"

"On the contrary, my dear friend,
 this diamond became our only resource. With it I might regain our horses and their furniture and, still further, money to pay our expenses on the road."

"Athos, you make me tremble," cried D'Artagnan.

"We divided, then, this diamond into ten parts of 100 pistoles each. Ten throws of 100 pistoles each—ten throws without revenge. In thirteen throws I lost all—in thirteen throws."

"Heavens!" cried D'Artagnan, rising from the table.

"Patience, patience!" said Athos. "I had a plan. The Englishman was an original. I had seen him conversing that morning with Grimaud, and Grimaud had told me that he had made him proposals to enter into his service.
 I staked Grimaud—the silent Grimaud
 —divided into ten portions."

"Well, what next?" said D'Artagnan, laughing in spite of himself.

"Grimaud himself, understand, and with the ten parts of Grimaud, which are not worth a ducat, I won back the diamond. Tell me, now, whether you don't think persistence is a virtue?"

"This is a droll story," cried D'Artagnán, a little consoled and holding his sides with laughter.

"You may easily guess that, finding the luck turned, I again staked the diamond. I won back your furniture,
 then your horse, then my furniture,
 then my horse, and then I lost again.
 To make short, I regained your furniture and then mine. That's where we left off. That was a superb throw, so I left off there."

D'Artagnan breathed as if the whole hostelry had been removed from off his chest.

"Then I understand," said he timidly.
 "the diamond is safe. But what is the use of horse furniture without horses?"

"I have an idea concerning them.
 You have not played for a long time, D'Artagnan. You ought, then, to have a good hand."

"Well, what then?"

"Well, the Englishman and his companion are still here. I remarked that he regretted the horse furniture very much. You appear to think much of your horse. In your place, now, I would stake the furniture against the horse."

"But he will not be satisfied with one equipment"

"Stake both. I am not selfish, if you are."

"You would do so?" said D'Artagnan, undecided, so strongly did the confidence of Athos begin to prevail, unknown to himself.

"In one single throw."

"But having lost the horses, I am saying:

"That's a sad throw, comrade. You will have the horses fully equipped,

 monsieur."

The Englishman, quite triumphant,
 did not even give himself the trouble
 to shake the dice; he threw them on the table without looking at them, so sure was he of victory; D'Artagnan himself had turned on one side to conceal his ill humor.

"There, there, there!" said Athos, with his quiet tone: "that throw of the dice is extraordinary. I have only witnessed such a one four times in my life. Two aces, gentlemen!"

The Englishman looked, and was seized with astonishment; D'Artagnan looked and was seized with pleasure.

"Then monsieur takes his horse back again," said the Englishman.

"Certainly," said D'Artagnan.

"Then there is no revenge?"

"Our conditions said no revenge, you will please to recollect."

"That is true; the horse shall be restored to your lackey, monsieur."

"A moment!" said Athos; "with your permission, monsieur, I wish to speak
 a word with my friend."

"If you please."

Athos drew D'Artagnan on one side.

"I would take the 100 pistoles. You know you have staked the furniture against the horse or 100 pistoles, at your choice."

"I will take the horse."

"In which, I repeat, you are wrong.
 What is the use of one horse for us
 two? I could not get up behind. You cannot think of humiliating me by riding by my side, prancing along upon that magnificent charger. We want money to carry us back to Paris."

"I am much attached to that horse, Athos."

"And there again you are wrong; a horse slips and injures a joint. There is a horse, or rather 100 pistoles, lost;
 a master must feed his horse, while, on the contrary, 100 pistoles feed their master."

"But how shall we get back to Paris?"

"Upon our lackeys' horses."

"Your advice, then, is"—

"To take the 100 pistoles, D'Artagnán. With the 100 pistoles we can live well to the end of the month. We have undergone a great deal of fatigue, remember, and a little rest will do us
 no harm."

"I rest! Oh, no, Athos. The moment
 I am in Paris I shall prosecute my researches after that unfortunate woman."

"Well, you may be assured that your horse will not be half so serviceable
 to you for that purpose as the money."

D'Artagnan acquiesced, then, and chose the 100 pistoles, which the Englishman paid down immediately.

They then determined to depart.
 Peace with the landlord in addition to Athos' old horse, cost 6 pistoles. D'Artagnan and Athos took the nags of Planchet and Grimaud, and the two lackeys started on foot, carrying the saddles on their heads.

However ill our two friends were mounted, they soon got far in advance of their servants and arrived at Crevecoeur. From a distance they perceived Aramis seated in a melancholy manner

the gentlemen I expected today, according to have such a wish for him that I gave him to him."

"Gave him?" cried D'Artagnan.

"Lord! Yes, gave it to him; you can't call it anything but a gift," said Por-thos, "for the animal was worth at least 150 louis, and the stingy fellow would only give me 80!"

"Without the saddle?" said Aramis.

"Yes, without the saddle."

"You will please observe, gentlemen," said Athos, "that Porthos has made the best bargain of any of us."

And then commenced a roar of laughter in which they all joined, to the astonishment of poor Porthos; but when he was informed of the cause of their hilarity, his laughter, according to custom, was more vociferous than anybody's.

On arriving in Paris, D'Artagnan
 found a letter from M. de Treville,
 which informed him that, at his request, the king had promised that he should be admitted to the company of the musketeers.

As this was the height of D'Artagnán's worldly ambition, apart, be it well understood, from his desire of finding Mme. Bonacieux, he ran, full of joy, to seek his comrades, whom he had left only half an hour before, but whom he found very sad and deeply preoccupied. They were assembling in council at the residence of Athos, which always indicated an event of some seriousness. M. de Treville had intimated to them that, it being his majesty's fixed intention to open the campaign on the 1st of May, they must immediately get ready all their appointments.

"And what do you reckon your appointments will cost?" said D'Artagnán.

"Oh, we can scarcely venture to say.
 We have made our calculations with Spartan economy, and we each require 1,500 livres."

"Four times fifteen make sixty—ah! 6,000 livres," said Athos.

"For my part, I think," said D'Artagnan, "with 1,000 livres each"—

"Stop!" said Porthos. "I have an idea."

"Well, that's something; for my part,
 I have not the shadow of one," said Athos coolly. "But as to D'Artagnan,
 the idea of belonging to us, gentlemen,
 has driven him out of his senses. A thousand livres! For my part, I declare I want 2,000."

"Four times two make eight, then,"
 said Aramis. "It is 8,000 that we want to complete our appointments, of which appointments, it is true, we have already handsome saddles."

"Besides," said Athos, waiting till D'Artagnan, who went to thank M. de Treville, had shut the door, "besides,
 there is that beautiful ring which beams from the finger of our friend.
 D'Artagnan is too good a comrade to leave his brothers in embarrassment
 while he wears the ransom of a king
 on his finger."

Such a statement, coming from the cashier of a bank, shows what confidence responsible people have in these pills. Mr. A. L. Wilson after trying them wrote:

"I have used Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills and also your Anti-Pain Pills, on myself, with good results. The Piano Case.

To restore polish on a piano case first dust it with a dry, soft cloth, then dip a piece of chamols skin of good size in clear, cold water and wring as dry as possible, rub over the piano with this and if the skin becomes soiled rinse well and use again, always wringing as clear of water as possible each time. When it is clean polish with a soft dry skin.

NEW SUMMER DRINKS.

Some Very Cooling and Gratifying Beverages From Foreign Lands.

Although the "cups" and "punches" of America have a wide reputation, foreign lands have equally refreshing beverages. England and India excel in the variety of their cooling mixtures, and Persia is the original home of the julep, but in that faraway country mint is never used; roses take its place.

A beverage from Turkey is called "sanec amour." Take the juice of three lemons and two oranges and the grated rinds of one lemon and one orange. Stick a lemon with cloves and hold over the fire until it is thoroughly roasted, then slice in thin slices, add a handful of fresh rose petals and one large cupful of honey. Pour boiling water over all and let cool gradually. When ready to serve chill in a shaker and serve in lemonade cups.

French egg pique is very refreshing on a hot day when one is too exhausted to eat. Put two tablespoonfuls of fruit sirup, any flavor desired, and one egg in a glass and fill with bottled soda that has been chilled. Mix thoroughly in a shaker until foamy, then pour out, add a dash of phosphate and sprinkle over the top a little grated nutmeg or fresh ground cinnamon as preferred.

English Lemonade.—Pare two oranges and six lemons as thinly as possible, steep them in a quart of hot (not boiling) water for four hours. Boil one and a quarter pounds of granulated sugar in three pints of water. Add to the two liquors the juice of

Value of Good Blood.

The value of the pure bred animal lies in his ability to consume and digest large quantities of feed and turn it into meat quickly. Formerly a beef steer had to be four years old before it could be marketed. Now, it is a better animal at eighteen months, a clean saving of two and one-half years in risk and feed in favor of the pure bred.

GETTING RID OF TUBERCULOSIS GERMS

It is not safe to put cattle into a barn that has housed tubercular animals unless it has been thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, says Hoard's Dairyman. If the barn is well lighted
a great many of the tubercular germs will be destroyed by the direct and the diffuse sunlight, but it is scarcely possible to construct a barn so that the light strikes all parts. It therefore becomes very necessary to thoroughly clean and disinfect a barn that has held tubercular animals before putting healthy animals into the stable.

Before disinfecting the walls, cell-ing, floors, mangers—in fact, every thing in the stable—should be thoroughly cleaned. A number of disinfectants may be used. Corrosive sublimate is probably the most powerful, but it is very poisonous. One part of corrosive sublimate to 1,000 parts of water is the proportion used. One of the commonest and a good disinfectant to use under all conditions is lime. In preparing quicklime add a pint and a half of water to each quart of lime or by weight 60 parts of water to 100

spoonfuls of castor oil are mixed with one-half pint of milk and given to the calf. This is followed in four to six hours by one teaspoonful of a mixture of one part salol and two parts sub-nitrate of bismuth. It can also be given with one-half pint of new milk or the powder placed on the tongue and washed down by a small amount of milk. The salol and subnitrate of bismuth can be secured from any druggist mixed in the proper proportions
at the time of purchase and thus have the powder readily available for use at any time.

TOMATO RECIPES.

Unusual and Dainty Ways of Serving
This Delicious Vegetable.

Tomatoes at this season of the year
are at their very best and cheapest,
and as they are a favorite vegetable
in every family it behooves the housewife to find out new ways of serving them. Here are some attractive recipes that are little known:

Tomatoes au Gratin.—Skin half a dozen ripe tomatoes and then place a layer of them in the bottom of a baking dish, cover with a layer of buttered and slightly toasted breadcrumbs, seasoned with salt and pepper, then more tomatoes and crumbs until the dish is full, with the crumbs on top.
Sprinkle with salt and pepper and bake in moderately hot oven for an hour. A little onion juice and minced parsley may be used.

Tomato Frappe.—Take large round ripe tomatoes and after peeling them take out the inside and rub through a coarse sieve to take out the seeds.
Season the pulp well with salt, pepper, cayenne, celery salt, a little mustard and enough vinegar and sugar to make it pleasantly subacid. Add a little onion juice or minced garlic and then freeze the whole until quite solid.
Let it stand repacked until ready to serve and then fill the hollowed out tomatoes, cover with mayonnaise jelly, placing a crisp leaf of lettuce under each tomato, and serve at once. This is very cool and refreshing when served on a hot day.

Boiled Tomatoes, Devil'd Sauce.— Wipe the tomatoes clean, cut off, then slice from the blossom and stem end of each and cut in halves. Season with salt, pepper and cayenne and dip into fine dry breadcrumbs, then place into beaten egg and again in breadcrumbs.
Place in a fine wire broiler and broil
both sides a nice brown and serve with sauce as soon as done.

Devil'd Sauce.—Cream four tablespoonfuls of butter with two tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar, one teaspoonful of dry mustard, quarter teaspoonful of salt, dash of cayenne, yolk
of one hard boiled egg rubbed smooth,
one egg lightly beaten and quarter of a cupful of vinegar. Cook in double boiler until it thickens to the consistency of thick cream. Serve hot or cold.

THE SWINEHERD.

Many young boars are ruined
by being allowed to run in lots near the sows.

Growing pigs should not be

In order to insure uniform growth the pigs should be fed when all of them are at the

If your sows have done well,
better keep them a little longer,
even if they are beyond the age limit, rather than to take up
with young and often unreliable

The Ayrshire cow in general is a handsome, sprightly looking animal of medium size, weighing at maturity about 1,000 pounds, red and white in color, the relative proportions of red and white being greatly varied and readily yielding to the taste of the breeder from his skill in selecting breeding animals. There has of late seemed to be more inquiry for Ayrshires with white preponderating, but color is merely a matter of fancy and carries with it no excellence of dairy quality. The Ayrshire bull shown is an animal of pure breeding and high quality.

parts of lime. The result is hydrate of lime, a dry powder. One quart of this is mixed with four quarts of water. This mixture must be used immediately to have any germicidal power. It has been found very effective to add some of the coal tar product, such as creosote or zenoleum, to this lime mixture.

The best way to apply the lime is through a spray nozzle, which is quicker and more economical than trying to put it on the walls and ceiling and floor of the barn with a brush.

We might say that some authorities recommend thoroughly disinfecting the barn with this coal tar product before whitewashing. There are a number of these coal tar products which may be used for this purpose, and full directions accompany each package as to how much water should be mixed with the coal tar product in order to make the right kind of a solution.

In disinfecting the barn it is quite as important to spray the mangers, cow ties, stalls and gutters and the feeding alley as it is the walls and ceiling. If corrosive sublimate is used great care must be taken to thoroughly wash the mangers, stalls and cow ties before any animals are permitted in them. On the whole, it will probably be found more satisfactory to use some coal tar product and then thoroughly white-wash. This would make it doubly sure that the barn had been thoroughly disinfected.

Treatment For Calf Scours.

Calves at the Wisconsin experiment farm are specially treated for calf scours. First special care is taken to avoid scours by keeping the calves in clean, bright, well lighted and well ventilated quarters. They are fed regularly until four weeks old on two to six pounds of their mother's milk three times daily. Care is taken to have the temperature of the milk as near that of freshly drawn milk as possible and always to have the calf pail scrupulously clean.

In spite of all precautions now and then, there is a case of scours. For the past two years such cases have been treated as follows: As soon as symptoms appear two or four table-

ABOUT COST OF LIVING.
The German housewife spends very little of her time worrying over the high cost of living, according to Mrs. Anna Kirchstein, a member of one of the German women's clubs of Chicago. "The German housewife," she says, "adjusts her expenditures to her income. If she has less money she uses less in her home and contents herself." Mrs. Kirchstein's rules for economy in the home are:

Pay cash for everything.

Do your own buying and marketing. Be careful in your selection of food.

Study out at the beginning of the week just how much you can spend that week.

Figure out a system of utilizing all materials. Even the leftovers from a meal can be made into something the next day.

Do not regard this system of economy as a burden, but as a pleasure and the duty of a wife to her husband.

Mix stove polish with equal parts of household ammonia and turpentine and apply to the coal stove. Rub off with a soft woolen cloth. It gives a high polish.

The white mayonnaise prepared by foreign chefs calls for cream, lemon juice and white of egg. Instead of the oil, vinegar and egg yolks of the ordinary mayonnaise.

In baking biscuits have the oven quite hot at first, but lower the temperature just a little before the biscuits are ready to take out. This will aid materially in making the biscuits light.

I Am Willing To Prove I Can Cure You

To That End I Am Giving Away $10,000 Worth of Medicine

DR. T. FRANK LYNOTT who is giving away $10,000 worth of medicine.

In order to show beyond all doubt that I am in possession of a medicine that will cure kidney trouble, bladder trouble or rheumatism, I will this year give away ten thousand dollars' worth of this medicine, and anyone suffering from these diseases can get a box of it absolutely free. All that is necessary is to send me your address.

I don't mean that you are to use a part of it or all of it and pay me if cured. I mean that I will send you a box of this medicine absolutely free of charge, a gift from me to the Uric Acid sufferers of the world, so I can show them where and how they may be cured. I will not expect payment for this free medicine, nor would I accept it now or later if you sent it. It is free in the real meaning of the word.

For twenty-five years—a quarter of a century—I have been trying to convince the public that I have something genuine, something better than others have for the cure of stubborn, chronic rheumatism, for torturing kidney backache, for annoying calls to urinate. But it is hard to convince people—they try a few things unsuccessfully and give up all hope and refuse to listen to anyone thereafter. Happily, I am in a position now to demonstrate to sufferers at my own expense that I have a medicine that cures these diseases. I don't ask them to spend any money to find out; I don't ask them to believe me, nor even to take the word of reliable people, but all I ask is that they allow me to send them the medicine at my own cost. That is surely fair.

To this end I have set aside ten thousand dollars, which will be used to compound my medicine. Much of it is ready now to be sent out, all of it fresh and standard. There will be enough for a sufferers, though there be thousands of them. And anyone who needs it can get some of it free. But in order that I shall know that you have a disease for which this medicine is intended, I ask you to send me some of your leading symptoms. If you have any of the symptoms in the list printed here you need my medicine and if you will write me I will gladly send you a box of it free with full directions for your use. Look the symptoms over, see which symptoms you have, then write me about as follows: "Dear Dr., I notice symptoms number—here put down the numbers, give your age, full address, and send it to me. My address is Dr. T. Frank Lynott, 887 Franklin Building, Toronto, Can."

The ten thousand dollars I am spending for the compounding of my medicine is only a part of the money I am devoting to this cause, for the package of medicine I send you will be fully prepaid at my expense. From any standpoint you view it, YOU incur no expense or obligation. Just tell others who you know are suffering who sent you this medicine that cured you.

I am promising to give away ten thousand dollars' worth of medicine, and I will do that; I am promising to send any sufferer who writes me a box of this medicine and full directions free of charge, and I will do that.

I can say further that this medicine has been vouched for according to law as complying in every detail with all requirements. It will stop rheumatism, it will stop pain and backache, it will stop too frequent desire to urinate; it will heal, soothe and strengthen. You will be better in every way for having taken it. There is not an ingredient that can injure; not one that will benefit. All that I ask is that you use it yourself so that you may be personally convinced.

Owing to the large number of requests, I have had ten thousand more copies of my medical book printed. This book is new and up to date and contains complete descriptions, symptoms, causes, effects and cures of kidney, bladder and rheumatic diseases. All who write for the free medicine will be sent a copy of this grand illustrated medical book—the largest ever written on these diseases for free and general distribution.

If you need medicine such as I have, if you are anxious to be cured and don't want to spend any money LOOKING for cures, write me. Read the symptoms over and let me hear from you today.

These Are the Symptoms:

- 1—Pain in the back.
- 2—Too frequent desire to urinate.
- 3—Burning or obstruction of urine.
- 4—Pain or soreness in the bladder.
- 5—Prostatic trouble.
- 6—Gas or pain in the stomach.
- 7—General debility, weakness, dizziness.
- 8—Pain or soreness under right rib.
- 9—Swelling in any part of the body.
- 10—Constipation or liver trouble.

- 12—Pain in the hip joint.
- 13—Pain in the neck or head.
- 14—Pain or soreness in the kidneys.
- 15—Pain or swelling of the joints.
- 16—Pain or swelling of the muscles.
- 17—Pain and soreness in nerves.

PRINCIPAL DYER, M. A., D. D.

Sunday evening. Mr. Woodworth is Superintendent of this great mission in Winnipeg. He is also author of that popular boon, "The strangers within our gates." This boon has had world wide circulation. All young people should hear this gifted western preacher.

The Bay of Quinte wreck of Wednesday morning, of last week, claimed another victim, when Mrs. Augustus Fahland, of Clamb Falls, Wis., passed away in the Hotel Dieu, Kingston, on Saturday morning, at 1.30 o'clock. The deceased lady, it will be remembered, with two other women, was thrown about in the car, when the train left the track, and received bad injuries. Her injuries consisted of a broken wrist, a bad scalp wound and an injury to her chest which caused her great suffering. When picked up after the accident, Mrs. Fahland was in an unconscious condition and remained so throughout. The deceased lady was on her way home after making a visit to her sister at Stoco. She was sixty-five years of age, and a very heavy built woman.

That good old song, "our old cow she crossed the road; and then she crossed the road, sir," is alright enough for "ye olden tymes," but it would be just as well for the cow and the owner if they would remember that things have changed since "Hannah died," and the crossing is not quite as safe as it was some years ago. This fact was well born out one day last week when one of our young men, who sports a new automobile, was coming up the Kingston road and collided with a cow, happily with no more serious results than a much startled bovine and a smashed headlight on the machine. It will be just as well if these new chauffeurs would adhere strictly to the "Tips for Automobiles," as were printed in the columns of this paper last week. Clause six of those "tips" reads as follows: "Automobiles running on country roads at night must send up a red rocket every mile, and wait ten minutes for the road to clear. They may then proceed carefully, blowing their horn and shooting roman candles." Of course, we do not propose to tell who this particular individual was, but we would advise you, "Jim" to be a little more cautious in the future.

The Horticultural Society is now distributing among its members a choice selection of bulbs imported direct from Holland giving to each member sixty tulips and thirty crocuses. The retail price of these bulbs is $2.00 so that each member obtains in the fall distribution alone, bulbs to the value of twice the amount of the annual subscription. The Society is enabled to effect this great saving by importing in large quantities and its funds are augmented by a substantial grant from the Government being in fact more than is contributed to the Treasury of the Society, by the members themselves. It must be a source of satisfaction to the members to know that the Society has supplied all the plants and shrubs for the Harvey Warner Park, has donated the vines to the churches, schools and other public buildings in town and this year gives to Trinity Church a bed of one thousand tulips. A Society that renders such assistance to its members and engages in the work of beautifying the town besides should never lack plenty of members. Now is the time to join and share in the fall distribution by applying to Mr. W. A. Grange, acting secretary.
